Real attempt?. Staged event?. Successful psy-op?. Staged publicity photo-op?.
Political stunt?. Or all of the above?

Check his ear now, look for a hole. Of course they could shoot his ear out back after.

Remember that regardless of this event, staged or real; "father of the [genocide] vaccine" Trump is not on our side. This will not make us forget.

As a nation, the United States, as if we did not already know, is convulsed. Paranoid and divided, giddy with conspiracy and deranged by a fear of totalitarian seizure, hyper partisan and hostile to debate and any loose definition of facts (this condition afflicts the entire political spectrum), the only thing missing so far was this: an assassination attempt on a presidential candidate.

Till now, we were seeing the cruel spectacle of an aged president visibly and publicly being mauled, a wounded beast let out on safari in order to be hunted by all manner of trophy hunting punditry. Joe Biden has mumbled and fumbled his way through a haze, even as his stage managers desperately try to operate the strings. With each day, another Democratic lawmaker is expressing concern that he voluntarily yields to a fitter model.

In this whole business, the presumptive Republican nominee, Donald Trump, has remained unusually reticent. Let the Democrats keep finding the rope, and the rest will follow. Then came the shots at a rally held in Pennsylvania on July 13.

Cue to the event. Videos aplenty to choose from. Faint gunshots register in the background. Trump seems to grab his head and proceeds to fall to the ground. Secret Service agents form a scrum. Trump is then lifted, blood streaking his head, seemingly from a grazing wound. A moment of near martyred glory follows: Trump, pausing the agents, salutes to the crowd.

[This is an alternative viewpoint from AIM:]

Trump had a small bag of fake blood behind his ear. That is why he smacked his ear so hard and then went down. Secret service was too slow to respond. Trump's sniper protection was looking directly at the building the fake gunman was on. The BBC reporter only interviewed one witness who was reportedly 50 feet from the gunman, yelling at the police on the ground and the secret service on top of the building next to the gunman but did nothing. Then, supposedly the secret service shot him, but videos show Trump's sniper shooting the gunman. The picture of Trump with the flag and blood running down his face was completely fake. [And another from Activist Post:]

Others claimed this was a false flag, created by the Republicans to buy voter sympathy and votes.

"I knew immediately that something was wrong in that I heard a whizzing sound, shots, and immediately felt the bullet ripping through the skin," he stated in a post on Truth Social. "Much bleeding took place, so I realized what was taking place."

Video shows moment of Trump assassination attempt at rally

The shooter in question is said to have been shot by the Secret Service, making this the first attempt to assassinate either a president or presidential candidate since an effort was made on Ronald Reagan's life in 1981. One spectator was also killed, with two others "critically injured". "It is incredible that such an act can take place in our Country. Nothing is known at this time about the shooter, who is now dead," stated Trump.

President Biden, in condemning the attack, told reporters that "the idea – the idea – that there's political violence, or violence in America like this, is just unheard of, it's just not appropriate."

Far from this being incredible, such acts of violence speckle and blood US politics. Candidates have been previously gunned down in cold blood. Presidents, whether going to the theatre or appearing in public motorcades, have been very publicly assassinated.

Within minutes, the metre on the political gauge was ticking, making Trump sound like an oppressed jihadi warrior. These are the effusive words of Texan Gov. Greg Abbott: “They try to jail him. They try to kill him. It will not work. He is indomitable.” The state’s Attorney General Ken Paxton sounded forbiddingly biblical: “The world is evil. Praise God that President Trump was able to walk away on his own. Praying for his complete healing and that this person is captured immediately.”

Republican Florida Senator Rick Scott also gave an inkling about how the shooting will be processed in the political mix. “Democrats and liberals in the media have called Trump a fascist. They’ve compared him to Hitler. They’ve tried to lock him up. They tried to remove his Secret Service protection.” This was nothing less than “an assassination attempt by a madman inspired by the rhetoric of the radical left.”

While the US is a republic proud of overthrowing a supposedly tyrannical monarch, it sports one unassailable kingdom: that of conspiracy. With its vast court, it exercises a curious tyranny over the mind. All can fall for it. There are those who will assume, and already have, that Trump staged his own shooting for the sheer convenience of it all. Nothing he will say will convince them otherwise, seeing that his relationship with truth is estranged beyond repair.

On the other side, there will be a narrative that lone shooters in these instances never exist. Behind the gun is a long cast shadow of the Establishment: the intelligence community, law enforcement, and other dark annexes of the Deep State.

As both Trump and Biden have been seen by their respective detractors as satanic guarantors of doom should they return to the White House, the moderates have a mere sliver to work with. The tedious words of “existential threat” are used as wounding weapons to excoriate opponents.

Despite such cheap language, the United States has previously endured an effort to constitutionally and tangibly divide it, leading to a Civil War that continues its haunting reach. It has also survived the assassination of its political figures, in large part because the Republic, at some point, took less interest in representative politics than politics bought. It was a point Gore Vidal proved relentless on: Why run for office when you can buy its occupants?

A mad patient, an inspired experiment, a cruel manifestation, a sprawling empire, the republic will continue surviving, even in decline, overseen by corporate boardrooms and unelected figures. “The lesson,” the Financial Review remarked optimistically, “is that American democracy has proven itself resilient.” Despite making the usual error about a political system that is distinctly not democratic – the Founding Fathers hated the idea of a fully represented demos – the paper is unlikely to be proved wrong. A spell of febrile lunacy, however, is likely to follow first.

Trump shot in the ear, survives assassination attempt as questions emerge about Secret Service and local police

NaturalNews.com | Mike Adams

Highlights:

- Trump was struck in the right ear by rifle fire that we now know came from an AR-15 rifle deployed by a shooter who is now believed to be a left-wing radical.

- Trump survived the assassination attempt and has now been released from the hospital, he is reportedly in good condition.
- Questions have arisen about gross lapses in security by the US Secret Service and local law enforcement.
- An increasing number of people are speculating that this assassination opportunity was set up by the deep state, recruiting a radical shooter to do the job, but the shooter (barely) missed.
- DEI "woke" recruiting of US Secret Service agents reveals many agents, the females in particular, to have a shocking lack of basic firearms handling skills. In one video, a female Secret Service agent struggled for nearly 10 seconds to try to holster her own weapon as Trump was being rushed into a vehicle. See video on Twitter.
- CNN and other left-wing media refuse to report the event as an assassination attempt. CNN: "Secret Service rushes Trump off stage after he falls at rally."
- Five days ago, during a fundraising call, Joe Biden said, "It's time to put Trump in the bullseye." Many people are interpreting this as a command to the deep state to unleash assassination ops against Trump.

Rep Thomas Massie tweeted:

The same bureau that investigated the Las Vegas shooting and the January 6th pipe bombs is now investigating the attempted assassination of Trump. This is also the same bureau that raided Mar-a-Lago. I'm sure they'll get to the bottom of this soon.

DC_Draino tweeted:

They left the roof wide open

Secret Service snipers had eyes on the shooter

People were screaming about a man on the roof with a gun

But Secret Service waited

They waited for him to take the shots

Then they killed the shooter

It was a setup

And he wasn't supposed to miss

Trump rally shooting: Ex-president injured in assassination attempt at rally that leaves spectator and gunman dead

The former president ducked to the floor as shots rang out and was mobbed by Secret Service agents, while the sniper, who was killed by security forces, has been named as Thomas Matthew Crooks.

James Robinson | News.Sky.Com

Donald Trump has been shot and injured in an assassination attempt at a campaign rally, which saw a spectator and the gunman killed.

The former president escaped with a bullet wound to his ear in the attack, which happened early on Saturday evening as the former president was giving a speech to supporters in Butler, Pennsylvania, about 30 miles (50 km) north of Pittsburgh.

The Republican challenger, who is due to receive his party's formal nomination in Wisconsin this week, has since said it was "God alone who prevented the unthinkable from happening".

Mr Trump was seen ducking to the ground as a series of shots rang out and people screamed in panic during the attack.

Hear what secret service said to Trump

'Let me get my shoes on', the former president said moments before being hurried off stage

He was mobbed by Secret Service seeking to shield him and as he was bundled off stage to a waiting armoured vehicle with a bloodied ear, Mr Trump pumped his fist in the air in a show of defiance and shouted "fight" as the cheering audience chanted "USA".

As well as one person in the crowd being killed, two people were critically injured after the gunman fired "multiple shots" from an "elevated position" from outside the rally venue, said the Secret Service.

The FBI has named the attack - shot dead by security forces - as 20-year-old Thomas Matthew Crooks, who according to state records was a registered Republican.

Footage at the scene showed a white-roofed factory building, about 150m from where Mr Trump was speaking, with a body and a semiautomatic rifle on top.

An eyewitness told the BBC that they could see the shooter crawling on another nearby roof and alerted police and the Secret Service before Trump was shot.

"He had a rifle," the witness said. "We could clearly see him with a rifle. Absolutely. We're pointing at them. The police are down there running around on the ground. We're like, hey, man, this guy on the roof with a rifle. And the police were like, huh? What? You know, like they didn't know what was going on, you know, we're like, hey, right here on the roof, we can see him from right here. We see him, you know, he's crawling!"

The witness continued, "Next thing you know, I'm like, I'm thinking to myself, I'm like, why is Trump still speaking? Why have they not pulled him off the stage? I'm standing there pointing at him for, you know, two or three minutes. Secret Service is looking at us from the top of the barn. I'm pointing at that roof, just standing there like this. And next thing you know, five shots ring out."
